HALF A TON OF OPIUM

STARTLING HAUL AT MARSEILLES

Marseilles, Apr. 21.
Nearly half a ton of refined opium has been discovered by the police in the prison cells of the French line Theophile Gautier which arrived from Istanbul to-day.
The Theophile Gautier is a 9,000 ton vessel, owned by the Soc. Des Services.—Reuter.

JAPANESE CONSUL WARNED

THREATENING LETTER

SHANGHAI TERRORISM

(Special to "Telegraph")

Shanghai, April 22.
The revival of terrorist activities by anti-Japanese organisations in the Shanghai area has been accompanied by threats against the Japanese Consulate.

Officials at Shanghai at loss how to consider a letter received by the Japanese Consul-General from the "Blood and Iron Corps" threatening vengeance for the thousands of Chinese "slaughtered by the Japan forces in Manchuria, Jehol, Chihli and Shanghai."

There is an inclination in some quarters to regard the letter as an empty threat but no chances are being taken and extra precautions are being taken in the neighbourhood of the Japanese Consulate premises and they will be continued as long as there is a possibility of the threat being carried out.

STORE BOMBED.

In the meantime, the anti-Japanese organisations are becoming increasingly active. A piece-goods store in the French Concession was bombed yesterday, presumably on the ground that it was selling Japanese goods.

A Chinese customer on the premises was slightly injured, receiving a cut on the face. Otherwise the only effect of the bombing was the shattering of four large sheets of plate glass in the windows.—Reuter.

SHANGHAI CANCELS ENTERTAINMENTS

(Special to "Telegraph")

Shanghai, April 22.

All the arrangements which had been made in Shanghai for the entertainment of Major General O. C. Borrett who arrives tomorrow morning have been cancelled as it is stated that he is leaving for Peking almost immediately.

He is expected to be in the North for about a fortnight.—Reuter.

MISSION OF PEACE

ROOSEVELT BREAKS PRECEDENT IN PERSONAL WELCOME

NEW FACTOR IN SITUATION

(Special to "Telegraph")

Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, April 22, 1933 a.m.

New York, Apr. 21.

"The last time I was with you, I came on a mission of peace. I am still on that mission," said Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, the British Prime Minister, broadcasting before leaving quarantine to-day.

"All over the world," he went on, "we are warring with the industrial depression. I have come to discuss with your President, how we can conduct that war against unmerited poverty." "New York received a disappointment. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald was expected to land and to give New Yorkers, with whom he is very popular an opportunity of welcoming him to the United States once more.

DODGES NEW YORK.

The Prime Minister and his party disembarked at the quarantine station, however, in order to save time by avoiding New York.

A special train awaited the party at Jersey City to take them direct to Washington, where they will attend an informal dinner at the White House to-night.—Reuter.

IN WASHINGTON.

Washington, Apr. 21.
Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and his party arrived here this evening after spending their time on the train journey in studying the most recent development in the United States.

They were welcomed at the station by Mr. Cordell Hull, the Secretary of State, and drove by motor-car to the White House, where President Roosevelt broke a long established precedent by going to the front door to greet them under the portico.

PRESIDENT'S FAMILY.

President Roosevelt was accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt and their married daughter, Mrs. Dall. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's broadcast address from the Berengarin has created a very favourable impression.—Reuter.

The Premier was met in New York by the British Ambassador, Sir Lindsay, who later travelled with him to Washington. In Washington, he will stay at the White House where he will be the guest of the President.

THE CONVERSATIONS.

The conversations will range over current problems, with particular reference to those which will arise at World Economic Conference. Disarmament and War Debts are also expected to be among the subjects on which views will be exchanged.

The United States departure from gold standard is naturally expected to affect considerably many of the economic and financial questions which are likely to be considered.

Officials accompanying the Premier include Sir Robert Vansittart, Permanent Under Secretary at the Foreign Office, Sir Frederick Leith Ross, the Government's Chief Economic Adviser, and Mr. A. E. Overton, of the Board of Trade.—British Wireless and Reuter.

THE C.E.R. CRISIS

POSSIBILITY OF HOSTILITIES

LE TEMPS' VIEW

(Special to "Telegraph")

Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, April 22, 1933 a.m.

Harbin, Apr. 22.

Manchukuo official circles consider the Soviet reply to their demand for immediate unconditional return of the C.E.R. locomotives as an insult.

The attitude of both disputants is most firm.—Reuter.

Paris, Apr. 21.

The possibility of a clash between Russia and Japan in consequence of the crisis over the C.E.R. dispute is attracting much attention.

Moscow's rejection of the Manchukuo demand is considered in some quarters to carry dangerous possibilities.

Le Temps, however, commenting on the crisis, does not think it likely that the dispute will develop.

Penniless Moscow, it says, will probably save its face by ceding its interest in the Chinese Eastern Railway for a hundred million yen or whatever Japan offers.

Le Temps also absolves Tokyo of a desire to push on to Peking and Tientsin in her North China operations, which would provoke grave international complications.

The Journal says that if China relies upon the intervention of the Powers or the League, she shows a singular lack of a sense of realities. The only wise policy is direct negotiations with Japan.—Reuter.

TROOP REINFORCEMENTS.

Peking, Apr. 21.

Chinese report the arrival of 1,000 fresh Russian troops and a machine-gun corps at Manchull.

This together with the vigilant troop training and military manoeuvres of the Soviets has increased the Chinese expectations of strong Russian resistance against the Japanese threat to take over control of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

METRO-VICKERS' BIG JOB

CONTRACT FOR HUGE POWER PLANT

London, Apr. 21.

A Contract for a 150,000 kilowatt turbo generating plant which will be the largest in Britain has been placed with the Metropolitan Vickers Electrical Company by the London Power Company for the Battersea Power Station. The new machine will be forty per cent. bigger than any other operating or under construction, and will cost about £250,000.—British Wireless.

MOSCOW PETITION PRESENTED

ACTION EXPECTED SHORTLY

MOSCOW REPRISALS

TRADE WITH BRITAIN PROHIBITED

ALL-EMBRACING MEASURE

Moscow, April 22.

The Soviet's retaliation to the declaration of an embargo on Russian goods by Great Britain, was announced to-day by the Commissar for Foreign Trade.

The reprisal takes the form of a complete prohibition of orders to or purchases from Britain.

The chartering of vessels under the British flag is prohibited.

Restrictive regulations are imposed in respect of British goods in transit through the U.S.S.R.

Re-exporting organisations must reduce to the utmost the use of British ports.

The measure will remain in force as long as the British embargo.—Reuter.

STABBING AFFRAY

TWO MEN WOUNDED AT WEST POINT

A Chinese suffered a stab-wound in the abdomen and another had his forefinger cut in an affray which occurred shortly after 8.30 last night in the Western district.

A Chinese detective was called to the scene where he found the two injured men and took them to the local Station, whence they were transferred to the Government Civil Hospital.

The man suffering from the severe abdominal injury, a vegetable hawker named Li Chuen, aged 25, was immediately carried on to the operation table as his condition appeared to verge on the critical.

Both victims are supposed to have been attacked by a third man who ran away before the Police got to the scene.

U.S. ANTI-INFLATION GROUP ACTIVE

FIGHTING LEGISLATION IN THE SENATE

LABOUR DEMAND FOR HIGHER WAGES

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, April 22, 8.30 a.m.)

WASHINGTON, Apr. 21.

STRENUOUS EFFORTS ARE BEING MADE BY THE ANTI-INFLATIONISTS TO DEFEAT THE FARM BILL AMENDMENT APPOINTING PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT VIRTUAL "DOLLAR DICTATOR" ALTHOUGH IT IS ADMITTED THAT IF THE MEASURE PASSES THE SENATE, RESISTANCE IN THE HOUSE WOULD BE USELESS.

Passage through the Senate is not, however, likely to be easy. In the Senate Banking Committee to-day, a motion to delete the provision for lowering the gold content of the dollar failed to pass, the voting resulting in a tie, 10-10.

An amendment authorising the Federal Reserve Banks to check inflation by requiring member banks to increase or decrease their reserves against deposits as the situation required was passed.

REACTION SETS IN ON STOCK MARKET

The Republican "steering" committee, which held a meeting to-day presided over by Mr. Ogden Mills, the Secretary of the Treasury in the Hoover Administration, decided that it would be futile to oppose the legislation in the House of Representatives if it passed through the Senate.

OPPOSITION BILL.

Mr. Ogden Mills is busily engaged in framing a Republican opposition Bill. Opinions are mixed in high financial circles, but a high official of the Federal Reserve Board wholeheartedly endorsed the impending inflation legislation as "the safest kind of inflation, that could be safely watched, handled and controlled by experts."—Reuter.

Washington, Apr. 21.

Mr. William Green, the President of the American Federation of Labour, announced at a meeting of the Executive Council that he will urge immediate increases in wages to offset "the deleterious effect of currency inflation."

MARKET DECLINES.

In New York to-day, the market fluctuated wildly, but at the close there were considerable losses on all shares. Over five million shares were done.

A sharp advance occurred in the morning, but later stocks, commodities and silver declined owing to the recovery of the dollar, which is attributed to a reaction from an overvalued condition.

BRITISH MOVE?

Some observers suggest that Britain used the Exchange Equalisation Fund to force an improvement in the dollar, but there is no confirmation of British activity. Over 15,000,000 ounces of silver were involved in contracts on the silver market, where the bar spot price fell to 84½.

LONDON MARKET.

On the London Stock Exchange the American currency situation continued throughout the day to cause erratic movements in the markets most affected. Dollar-sterling exchange persisted, however, at 8.55, the same as last night, but francs on the pound night, but francs on the pound night, but francs on the pound night.

BEATS MAIER IN STRAIGHT SETS

DAVIS CUP TIE IN SPAIN

Barcelona, Apr. 21.

Great Britain lead Spain by two matches to love at the end of the first day's play, and are now almost assured entrants into the second round of the European Zone of the Davis Cup.

Fred Perry achieved a sparkling performance in beating the Spanish champion, Senor E. Maier, in straight sets in the first encounter of the day, and H. W. Austin followed this up by easily beating Sindrou.

Maier took Perry to 12 games in the each of the first two sets, but the Englishman won the third with comparative ease, conceding only two games.

Austin was never extended. He won the first set to love, the second at 6-3, and the next at 6-2.—Reuter.

EDITOR SHOOTING DEVELOPMENT

A SECOND ARREST MADE

POULTRY DEALER CHARGED

In their endeavour to "get the man higher up" C.I.D. investigators engaged on the Chinage editor shooting case, made an early-morning raid on Thursday on a floor in Hollywood Road, situated not far from the offices of the newspaper, when they arrested Sth Luen-ki, alias Sin Tsai-ki, a poultry dealer.

The important character of the operation was revealed when the man was produced before the Police Magistrate this morning and charged with procuring the attempted murder of the Chinese editor. Sin Luen-ki it was alleged, headed a ring of conspirators whose number was indicated by the Police Officer in a statement that "It was possible three other people would be arrested."

The alleged procurer of the attempted murder was remanded for a week, as also was Chan Hee, the 22-year-old market stall foki who is alleged to have carried out the actual shooting. Inspector Chester Woods told Mr. Wynne-Jones that he did not think it would be possible to conclude the preliminary investigations in time for the case to be taken to the Sessions next month.

An amendment to Chinese Restaurant Licences published in the Gazette to-day requires licence holders to prevent spilling on their premises, except in receptacles provided for the purpose.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

YOUR CHILDREN.

By Olive Roberts-Barton

Let us not deceive ourselves about childhood being the happiest time of life.

True, children do not need to worry about being out of work, or seeing that dinner is cooked after a heavy day's work, or to worry about the grocer or coal man not being paid, but their troubles are as real and as difficult as those of their parents.

Besides when these conditions exist in a household and are voiced every day, children borrow these troubles with an added terror. We learn to know children by an honest survey of our own childhood. As we look back all of us can remember things we worried about concerning home affairs, that we see now amounted to little or nothing. But we remember how we kept awake at nights, or felt ill and weak in school because one time our father said: "If I don't get that order, the mortgage interest can't be paid," and our mother cried and said it would be terrible to lose our home and be moved out into the street. Where would we go?

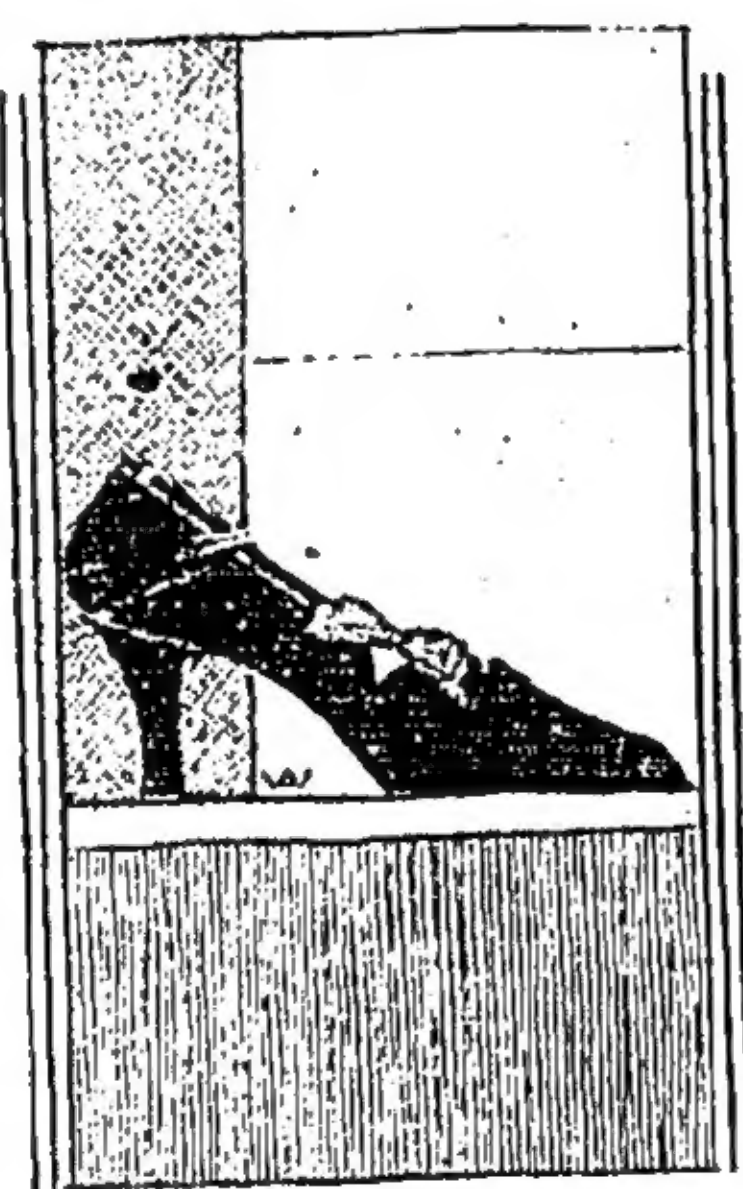

Impressed the Child

Neither of them meant it perhaps; not literally, but a child wouldn't know that.

So much for borrowed trouble. Let me list the things a child is up against in his daily life.

He has to keep his grade in school, which is as much of a worry and responsibility as a man keeping his position.

There is a boy who is the bane of your boy's life, who teases and bullies and pesters the life out of him, who tattles and lies. Or a girl who is jealous, who turns your little girl's friends against her, who is capricious and selfish and goes to extremes in making your own child miserable. You tell them not to mind, but these enemies are as real, and destructive as the people who try to undermine your husband's business

Suede shoes, like woollen frocks, are always fashionable. This pump is trimmed with a narrow band of patent leather at the top and tied with grosgrain at the side.

Two Frocks in One.

Barbara Weeks

Capes that come off, to leave a trim dress beneath them, almost give a girl two costumes instead of one.

Barbara Weeks has a new white matalasse crepe dress of this type. The dress has three kick pleats both front and back, to give the new straightline yet enough fullness. The cute little shoulder cape buttons onto huge yellow and white buttons at the sides of the square neckline and the round buckle looks just like a large edition of the same buttons. Her narrow brimmed white straw sail-for tips right, in style, and her sports shoes are white kid.

Jean Harlow, recently wore black and white evening pyjamas, with a draped evening cape, of the same materials.

Irene Ware has a delicate green crepe satin dress which follow the body line to the knees and then loosely to the floor. Her belt fastens with a double clasp of deep jade green onyx. She has a little cape of the same material that fastens on her shoulders with clips like the buckle, making the gown less formal.

or your own character.

Another trouble is this. Children frequently are blamed unjustly. They meant so well, or they just didn't think, or they were too slow or it was an accident. Their crime is magnified and they are bewildered by a punishment they don't deserve. An older person punished unjustly would soon seek redress or revenge. Children have no comeback.

They are scolded for things they do that are wrong, but seldom praised for things they do right.

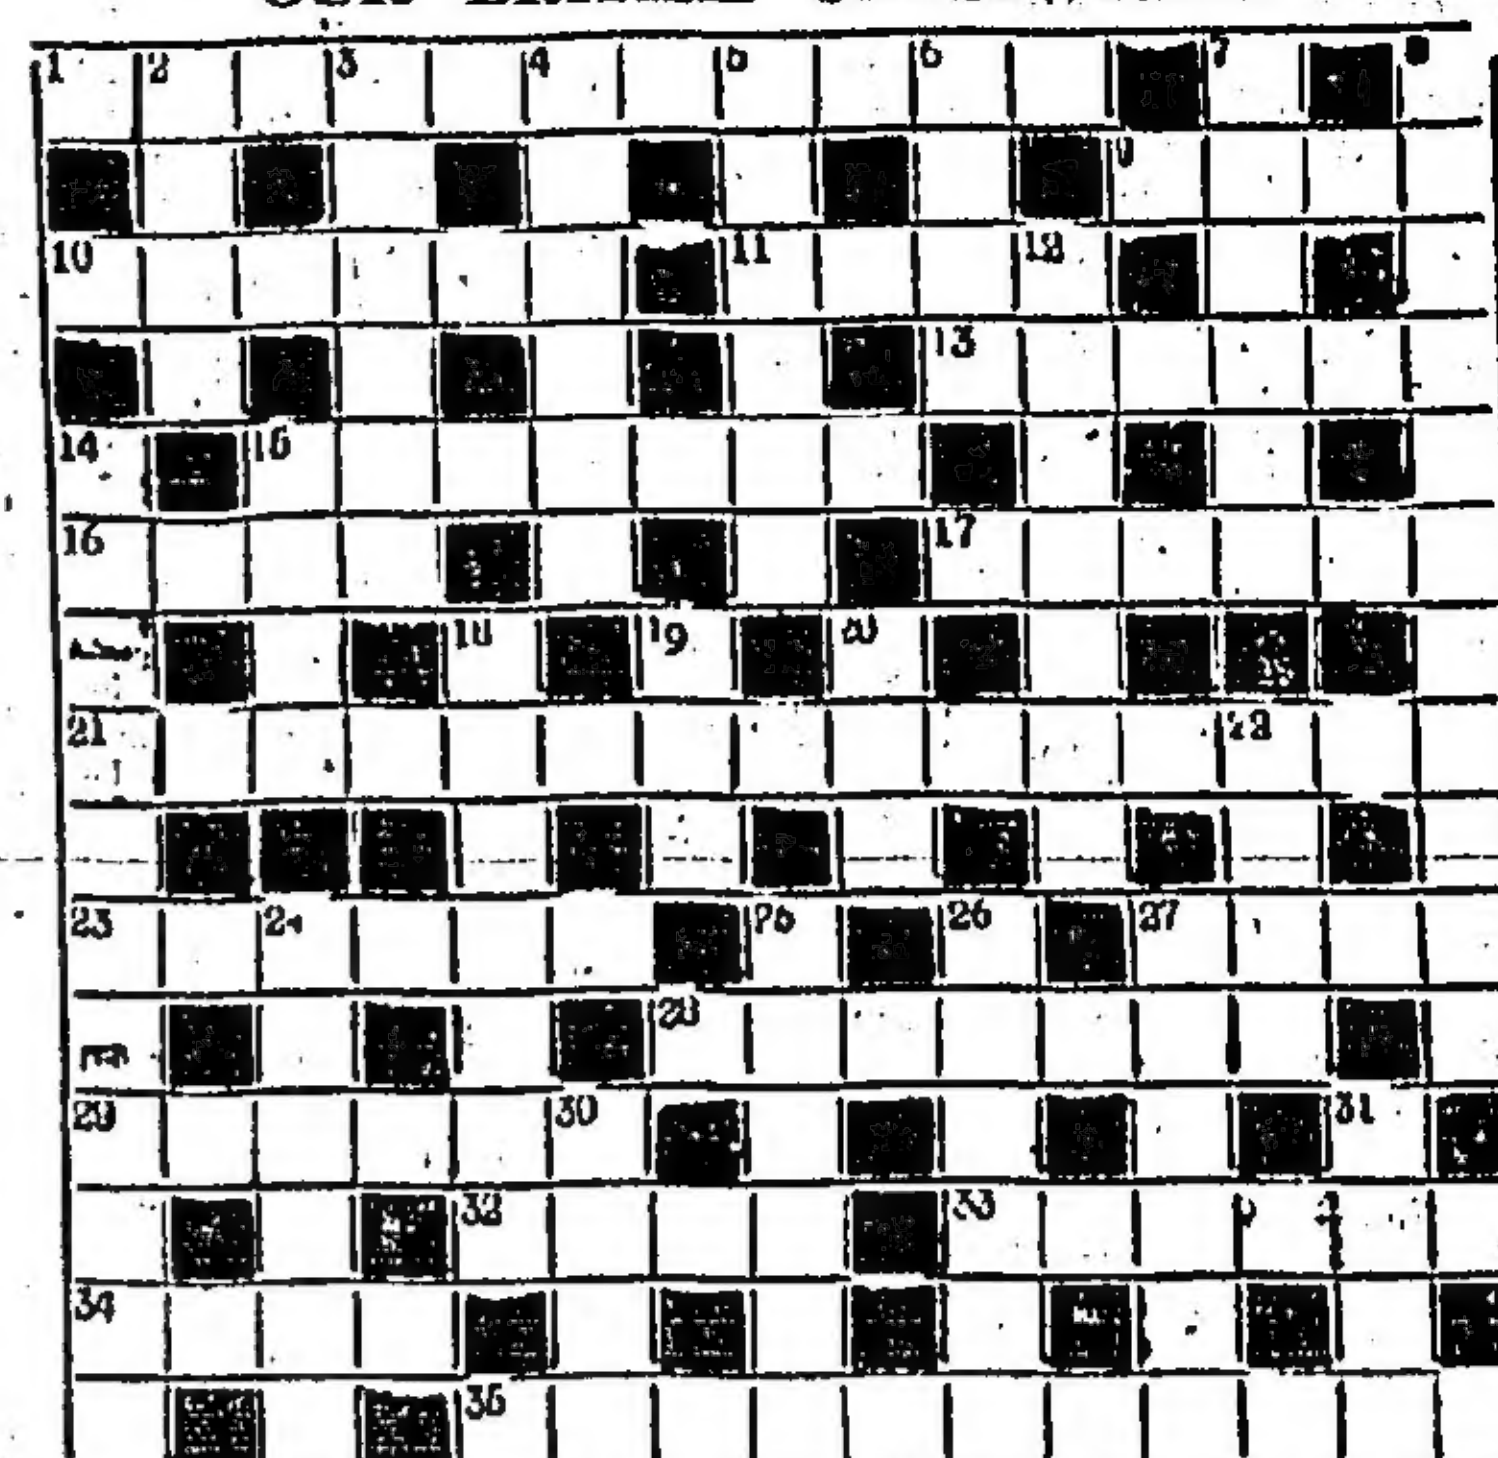

Studies very often do not interest them and school life becomes a burden. All children cannot adjust themselves to the popular curriculum. Compare it to an engineer adding figures all day, or to a woman ironing every day who hates ironing. Older people know acceptance and adjustments that children cannot possibly have.

Too bad all children cannot live in the country as they used to, where life was simple and assured—at least it used to be. Our cities require a social adjustment that is too much of a strain on the nerves of young people. Artificial pleasures cannot take the place of mental content.

The fabric of life these days catches children in its weave and places them in a pattern where by nature they do not belong. Don't take it for granted that all children are happy. Many of them have troubles that would put ours to shame.

LOVE or MONEY?

BY H. W. CORLEY

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

MONA MORAN, receptionist in a Wall Street law office, goes with her childhood sweetheart, STEVE, to the Halcyon Club. Steve has been mysteriously absent from New York for three years. Now he appears, well-dressed and prosperous. With no thought of impropriety he has ordered a gown and wrap sent to Mona which, after much indecision, she decides to wear. At the office that day, Mona has met DAIRY TOWNSEND, rich and socially prominent, but refused to dine with him. LOTTIE CARR, a fashion model and friend of Mona's, dines her escort and finds Mona and Steve. Steve announces he is expecting his partner.

But Moran comes to the Halcyon Club to see BUCH HARKINS, the proprietor, who has underworld connections. Mona sees her brother and is frightened, fearing him to be associating with gangsters. She is still worrying about this when Steve's business partner arrives. He proves to be Barry Townsend.

The floor rocked suddenly beneath Mona's feet. She became sharply conscious of her gown—not her own gown but the one Steve had paid for. Women in Barry Townsend's world did not accept such gifts from men. Men in Barry's world did not offer them to women they respected.

The orchestra was playing. The whirling, dancing throng floated past and for a moment Mona was terrified by the thought that she was going to faint. What would Barry think of her? She had declined an invitation to dine with him in a quiet, exclusive restaurant. Now he found her here in a night club, clothed as he must know she could not afford to be clothed. Wearing imported chiffon and ermine. She was here with Lottie, who was frankly noisy. And with Steve once a taxi driver, the son of a Third Avenue roustabout, grandson of the coal and ice dealer!

It was all very well for Steve and Barry to be on such good terms. Men could associate in business—with anyone they chose. Doubtless Steve's ability had in some way made that association worth while.

Mona thought again of her dress. She knew how men talked. "Great little girl—some looker, but poor. Have to dress her up if you want to step out with her."

Mona could imagine the furtive wink accompanying such a conversation.

Why had she come to this place without asking Steve first who was to be included in the party? Why had the fates sent Lottie—of all people—to this particular place on this particular night?

Lottie was explaining to Barry that she and Steve were eager to go places and do things. Steve nodded in agreement, with a certain cool politeness. As a matter of fact Steve was not particularly pleased over Lottie's intrusion, but his glance, travelling from Mona to Barry and back again, did not reveal this. Steve's eyes seemed to say, "At last I've brought you two together."

He rose to move off in the dance with Lottie. Barry Townsend sank into the chair beside Mona. "Well," he said, grinning, "may I order for you? I knew I was going to win out but I didn't expect it would be as soon as this!" His look of approbation warmed Mona's chilling sense. "Why didn't you tell Steve we had met before?" she asked.

Barry opened his eyes wide. "And let him down? Why, old Steve's been promising me this treat ever since I've known him!"

"As long as that?"

"And how!"

"Steve must have talked about me a lot. He never wrote. Steve just well, disappeared. Until this morning I hadn't seen or heard of him for three years."

Barry's eyes were serious now. She was pleased to read defence of Steve in those brown eyes.

"You mustn't blame old Steve for that," he said. "He wanted to accomplish something before he wrote you. Then he decided it would be better to come without writing. Letters are disappointing sometimes. Steve—"

"Has he accomplished anything?" Mona asked drily.

Barry drew a long breath. "I'll say he has!"

The girl withdrew her steady gaze and let it travel across the gaze and let it travel across the room. The jazz band was blaring noisily. No dreamy waltz now. Halcyon Club patrons preferred not to dream. The drummer, standing and wearing an odd little hat topped on one side of his head, was shouting the words of a song.

"Tell me about you and Steve."

Mona urged. "Steve?" Barry's tone was gentle and deliberate. Mona waited for a slight tinge of patronage but it did not come.

Barry knitted his brows as if wondering just how to begin. "Well, before I sailed for South America I met Steve. He had done a couple of good turns for me. Just before—a few hours before—I boarded the boat I ran into him. Suddenly, I thought—I mean I thought I'd like to have him come along. It looked like a good thing to have Steve along. So he came. It was lucky, too. He took to—well, my business—in a way I never could have done. Like a duck to water. I'd never have amounted to anything without Steve!"

It was Steve's story practically. Barry had omitted that Steve had been his favourite taxi driver. Barry spoke of Steve as of an equal.

"You," said Mona distinctly, "were born on Park Avenue—or its environs. Steve and I were born—and bred—on Third."

"Steve is my friend." After a moment Barry added, "I—well—I drank in those days. Steve cured me."

The gratitude, friendship in the man's voice was unmistakable. There was no patronage there. No "see-how-broad-I-am-in-my-views." Barry's eyes shone with affection when he spoke of Steve. Lottie and Steve returned to the table. With explanatory flourishes of a well-manicured hand Lottie announced that Steve was some "lil dancer." She elaborated on this decision. At length she said, "When we leave here, let's all go up to my place."

Lottie lived in a small apartment in the 50's, an address that was inexpensive and convenient. Rarely did she vouchsafe the information that she had a place in which to receive callers. Give a man a rocking chair by the fire, she would tell Mona vaguely, and see what it gets you in the way of dinner dates! If men wanted to see Lottie they might do so over an expensive menu card.

She shared the apartment with the inevitable girl friend to cut down expense. Frequently Lottie had begged Mona to live with her. Mona, declining, Lottie had picked Sallie Joyce.

Sallie was a nurse, usually employed on long cases or night work at hospitals and sanitariums. She paid half the rent, all her own telephone calls (religiously set down on a little pad on the telephone table), and came in occasionally to sleep during the day.

She always found time to prepare Lottie's breakfast before she slid into her own bed for the day. Moreover she entertained her own friends in the afternoon, cleaned up after such affairs in the true professional manner and, by the time Lottie arrived at six, was on the point of leaving for her work, fresh and rested, buttoning herself into an immaculately white uniform.

Lottie and Sallie never had social engagements together. They like the same brand of coffee. It was an ideal arrangement for both of them, regardless of the fact that each privately looked down on the other's station in life.

Lottie had furnished the place. A flirtation with an interior decorator—which flickered out in three months—had left Lottie with a fair knowledge of furnishings and one or two "good pieces."

When Sallie innocently added a clashing note Lottie removed it. Sallie either failed to notice this or didn't object.

"We can dance at my place," Lottie announced, hoping that Sallie had remembered to have the radio repaired.

But the men had other plans. They had been absent from the gay white lights for a long while, they reminded the girls. This was their party and they wanted it to be a real occasion.

It developed during the conversation that Steve and Barry lived together in an apartment on Park Barry was at Twilands, the estate avenue. Frequently, of course, in Westchester which was his uncle's home. His sister, Elizabeth, married happily, lived in a nearby town. Steve spent much time with his mother and the kids on Third Avenue. For the most part, however, they shared the same address.

"We'll go to Harlem maybe. We'll go anywhere we think of. Just drift around," was their plan.

The four left the Halcyon Club after considerable parley in a whirl of Lottie's wisecracks. Mona's perfume and generous tips.

Steve felt his party was a success. Barry thought both girls charming. Mona was exquisite and Lottie—Thank Heaven!—restrained.

Yes, Steve was rather pleased with himself and the evening. (To Be Continued)

A BROKEN DOWN SYSTEM.
This is a condition (or disease) to which many nurses are given but few really understand. It is simply weakness—a break down in the system, of the vital forces that sustain the system. No matter what may be its cause (they are almost numberless), its symptoms are much the same:
the more prominent being sleeplessness, worry, of prostration or weakness, depression of all sorts and want of energy for all the ordinary affairs of life. Now, what alone is essential in all such cases is increased vitality—vigour, vital strength and energy to throw off these morbid feelings, and as might be expected by a course of may be more certainly secured by a course of than by any other known combination. So surely as it is taken in accordance with the printed directions will the shattered health be restored and new assistance imparted in place of what had so lately seemed worn-out, used up and valueless. This preparation is suitable for all ages, constitutions and conditions, in either sex; and is difficult to imagine a disease or derangement whose main feature is weakness, that will not be speedily and permanently overcome by this restorative essence, while it is destined to cast into oblivion everything that had preceded it.

For this vital source of humanity,

A NEW PUPPET STATE?

NEWSPAPERS FORESEE HUPEIKUO.

Peking, Apr. 21.
Popular anxiety here is reflected in newspaper comment to-day, envisaging attempts to establish a North China State of Hupeikuo along the lines of Manchukuo by methods which have placed General Li Chi-chun in control of the Lan River region.
Newspapers accuse Li Chi-chun of playing a prominent part in the Tientsin disturbances in November 1931, and openly discuss the prospects of Li Chi-chun investigating "Chinese renegade leaders" to establish Hupeikuo, with outside assistance.
The newspapers take a grave view of the outlook, and adjure the populace to awaken to the danger facing Peking and Tientsin.—Our Own Correspondent.

Luanchow Returning to Normal.

Peking, Apr. 21.
The Luanchow region appears to have been quiet yesterday, probably due to the strong winds and heavy rainfall which visited North China, and which temporarily stopped Japanese aeroplanes carrying out their usual bombing and scouting operations.
Odd skirmishes are reported from various places, but Chinese despatches describe Luanchow as "gradually returning to normal."
Luanchow was visited by 10 Japanese aeroplanes on April 18, bombing various parts of the City, but since then the Japanese have left this City alone.—Reuter.

New Jehol Governor.

Changechun, Apr. 21.
The Manchukuo Government has appointed Chang Hui-peng, Commander of the Jehol Garrison, Governor of Jehol Province.
The official appointment will take place on April 21.—Reuter.

Chinese Troops Near Dalun.

Changechun, Apr. 21.
Remnants of troops under General Tang Yu-lin and General San Tien-yen are reported gathering near Dalun, although the whereabouts of General Tang are unknown. His surviving troops are said to be now under the command of his eldest son.
A Tatarian cavalry detachment and a Manchukuo contingent are garrisoning Dalun.—Reuter.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET STEADY

According to Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was buoyant yesterday. Business done: 5,210,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal reports:—After a sharp advance in the morning, stocks, grains, commodities and silver declined due to the good recovery of the dollar, which is ascribed to technical reaction from an over-sold condition, disconcerting those who anticipated inflationary demonstrations. Some observers believed that Great Britain engineered the recovery through the British equalization fund, but this is unconfirmable. Silver broke the three hundred point limit. Bar spot closed at 34 1/4.

New York Sugar futures soared to the highest point in two years, due to the sweeping advances in refined and raw sugar. Shorts in Wall Street scrambled to get contracts. Cuban operators were prominently buying and readily absorbed the heavy profit-taking.

Pepsodent announces a notable new discovery

—an entirely new cleansing and polishing material that is twice as soft as polishing materials commonly used in tooth pastes. Gives teeth a higher polish, brighter lustre—FILM stains disappear completely.

THE Pepsodent Laboratories announce a revolutionary discovery—a new cleansing and polishing material for tooth paste. For six months Pepsodent Tooth Paste has contained this remarkable new material. It possesses three exclusive virtues:

1. It stands unexcelled in removing dull, destructive FILM.
2. Its texture is invisibly fine. Thus, it imparts a higher polish to enamel—a brilliant glaze or lustre.
3. It is safe because it is soft—yes, twice as soft—as polishing materials in common use.

Yet in taste and appearance Pepsodent is still the Pepsodent you have always known. In results and safety it is new—brand new.

Pepsodent—special FILM-removing tooth paste

Removing FILM is, and always will be, Pepsodent's chief duty. Today's Pepsodent performs that duty better than ever before. Its new cleansing and polishing material brings a change in teeth's appearance within a few days' time.

Get a tube of Pepsodent today. See how quickly and safely it rids your teeth of decay-producing film—how it polishes them to sparkling brilliance.

SPEND MORE CAMPAIGN

NEED TO ROUSE THE NATION

THE GOVERNMENT'S ENCOURAGEMENT

A suggestion that mayors of English boroughs should take part in a national campaign for more spending was put forward by Mr. F. J. Marquis, President of the Incorporated Association of Retail Distributors, at the Association's annual dinner at the Savoy Hotel.

"As a trade," he said, "we are seriously alarmed at the reduction in consuming power. The taxable profits of six of the largest distributors of this country fell by 14.2 per cent. from 1932 to 1933, so that the practice of economy has not all been financial gain."

He suggested that the Government, using the great authority of the Chief Magistrates of the various towns, could start a national campaign for recruiting the dormant spending power of the people, and added: "Is it not possible for the Government to advise the country that personal economy has gone far enough, and that private spending may be of vital importance to the nation in turning the tide of trade?"

Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, Colonial Secretary, said: "Sound capital expenditure is perfectly consistent with economical administration. We should welcome and encourage any effective scheme which leads to wise spending."

Sir Woodman Burbridge remarked: "If the Government can see their way to induce the public to spend more money they will be doing a valuable work in encouraging manufacturers, retailers, and employers generally."

PANELS LOST FOR A CENTURY

STORY OF ACCIDENTAL DISCOVERY

A stroke of good fortune has restored to Eton College the Jacobean panelling of the Chapel which had been lost for nearly 100 years.

It was about 1840 that an over-zealous Provost decided to "improve" the interior of the Chapel in accordance with Early Victorian ideas.

He tore down the magnificently simple and dignified Jacobean panelling which covered most of the walls, sold it, and put up brand-new "Gothic" stalls and arched instead. Since then only old prints have recalled the time when the interior of the chapel did not come as an anticlimax to its external beauty.

A few years ago, however, a great deal of the 1840 woodwork was removed. Underneath part of it medieval frescoes were found and restored by Professor Tristram, but the rest of the exposed walls would have continued uncomfortably ugly but for a recent accident, which was this.

A resident of Sherborne, Dorset, who had recently bought some fine Jacobean panels, was puzzled to know whether they had been consecrated at some time in their history. Among others, he consulted a friend who happened to be Precentor at Eton College.

The Precentor knew the former appearance of the Chapel's interior from old prints, and was struck by the resemblance between the panelling there and that which his friend had acquired.

Closer examination and inquiry confirmed this suspicion. The long-lost panels have now been identified beyond a doubt, and the owner has offered them to the College.

There are 65 strips surviving, or enough to cover a considerable part of the walls.

COCHRAN'S $143,000 IN FIVE YEARS

SIR BARRY JACKSON'S LOSSES

Mr. C. B. Cochran reveals that his productions made a net profit of $143,246 in five years—between May, 1927, and October, 1932.

He lets the public into this secret in a foreword to "Barry Jackson and the London Theatre," by Mr. G. W. Bishop (Arthur Barker, Ltd., 21s.), published to-day.

Not all Mr. Cochran's profits have been made by the lightest forms of entertainment, nor all his losses through aiming high.

"I lost $15,000 on 'The Miracle,' but I also lost $15,000 on a revue," he writes.

Mr. Cochran states that although he is usually controlling two or three simultaneous productions in the West End besides provincial tours, productions in America and other interests, his permanent organisation consists of only 31—

One general manager, two general stage directors, one musical assistant, one dance director, one secretary, two shorthand typists, one telephone girl, and one office boy.

PROFIT IN ONLY ONE YEAR.

Though for ten years Sir Barry Jackson, who has been described as the fairy godmother of the English theatre, has been offering the public the best of modern plays, yet,

BOUND MAN'S BODY IN THAMES

HIS FOUR PAIRS OF TROUSERS

An extraordinary list of clothing figured in the description of a man whose body, with hands tied in front, was recovered from the Thames near the City and Continental Wharf.

The body was that of a man aged about 50, 5ft. 8in. in height, medium build, dark hair and clean shaven. There was a set of false teeth in the upper jaw.

His clothing consisted of:

Blue serge jacket, three pairs of blue serge trousers, one pair of grey trousers, four cardigans (two brown, one slate and one white), two flannel vests bearing the name "O. Towler" in black ink, one pair merino pants bearing the same name, brown mixture scarf, grey socks, black lace boots, canvas belt with brass buckle, and white metal charm, circular in shape, with triangle bearing a horseshoe.

The man, whose hands were tied together with two elastic bands and string, had apparently been in the water for about a month.

states Mr. Bishop, in only one year of his whole career have his collective theatrical ventures yielded a profit. Since 1922 he has produced over 40 plays in London alone.

He attributes his losses to the heavy administration expenses of his big theatrical organisation.

CORONER STOPS FUNERAL

BODY THAT WAS TO BE CREMATED

The funeral of Miss Alice Marion Wright, of Upper Richmond-road, S.W., was stopped by instructions of the coroner. The cremation was to have been at Woking, and the hearse and mourner's coaches had assembled when the coroner's order arrived.

Miss Wright, who was 73 years of age, had been in ill-health for some time. She lived in a large villa on the outskirts of Putney, and her staff included several maids and a chauffeur. Latterly the members of her household had included two nurses.

The cause of Miss Wright's death was certified as cerebral hemorrhage; arterio-sclerosis. She was the daughter of Mr. Joseph Wright, of independent means.

While an inquest was in progress at Battersea Coroner's Court a man arrived and asked to see the Coroner, Dr. Edwin Smith. The Coroner announced in court that he had been given an urgent message which might involve the stopping of a funeral, and for a few minutes he was absent from court.

CURRENCY WAR?

The New York Stock Market makes hay while the sun shines but the rest of the world is watching the results of America's adventure into inflation with decidedly mixed feelings. There seems no further doubt that President Roosevelt, having overcome a natural aversion to abandonment of the gold standard is now prepared to go the whole way. He has repeatedly demonstrated that it is impossible for him to be a tame and timid President. Intermediate and evasive counsels of mediocrity in plights and quandaries are not for him. Hence, while it is possible for the United States to abandon gold and still maintain her dollar at or near parity level, every step contemplated seems to suggest that this is far from the purpose. The proposed debasement of the dollar by the lowering of its gold content, the statement that the object of the measures is to minimise the effect upon American foreign commerce of the existence of depreciated currencies of other nations, both point to the intention to let the dollar go lower if it will. The inherent dangers in such a situation are obvious. A currency scramble seems inevitable. Every country is affected to a greater or less extent. Britain and other countries on the sterling standard have secured an advantage in foreign markets which America is setting out to remove. If the ratio between the dollar and sterling is greatly reduced, Britain must expect a substantial reduction in her foreign trade. France and other countries still adhering to the gold standard, already badly hit by the activities of the sterling bloc, will have to meet even sterner competition and adjust themselves to new conditions. In such circumstances, a general abandonment of the gold standard cannot be considered impossible. Necessity for self-defence will dictate protective steps in some form or other. If the American action compels higher tariffs and other trade barriers in gold countries and commences a general depreciation race elsewhere, it can only end by defeating itself. The position is clearly one requiring the earnest attention of all statesmen. In Britain, it is certain that Mr. Neville Chamberlain, when he presents his Budget next week, will have to face even stronger pressure for inflation from the already powerful group favouring some such action in England. The result of America's action must be increased unemployment in England, where the excess of unemployed labour is counter-balanced by an abundance of unemployed capital. The capital that is employed is hampered by unexampled taxation. A creative lead from the Government will be demanded. Will it be forthcoming? There is no sign of it. The Ministerial obsession appears to be that we must wait for the World Economic Conference. President Roosevelt has not waited for the Conference. If Britain goes on waiting for the clearer skies, we shall find ourselves unable to take full advantage of the finer weather.

Justice and Mercy in Hongkong

If the Colony wants to manufacture criminals from misguided youths, we can imagine no better method than that adopted in the case of So Wing-kan, a budding young soap manufacturer, who was sentenced to three months' hard labour on Thursday for uttering a forged document. A clever boy, with ambitions to get on in the world, he over-stepped the mark when endeavouring to dispose of chemicals of his own manufacture for soap making, and foreseeing failure if the true source was known, represented them as coming from a non-existent firm. He was underpaid by his employer, if the prosecuting officer's statements were accurate, and we have no reason to believe otherwise. Far more important, he was a first offender. The Magistrate seems to have been over-awed by the word "forgery" connected with the case. But the offence was not a serious one. The chemicals offered for sale were analysed by Government officials and found suitable for soap making. The "forgery" was nothing more than a misguided attempt to overcome the disabilities of youth in endeavouring to find a customer for his product. He expected, with some justification, that if he held himself out as a manufacturer of soap-making chemicals, he would be laughed at. This does not exonerate him from the offence, but the punishment was out of all proportion. The case is an illuminating example of the continuous overlooking of the First Offenders clauses incorporated in Hongkong Ordinances. If ever there was a case justifying first offender treatment it was this. The sole purpose of such legislation is that it may apply to cases of this type, yet it is ignored. It is, we know, argued that the psychology of the Chinese is such that application of first offender treatment, and the "giving of another chance," is not appreciated, but is more often taken as a sign of weakness on the part of the judicial authorities. It is an unproven hypothesis. The case we have quoted is not the only one. Examples are sufficiently numerous to call forth a reminder to our local magistrates that the essence of British law is justice tempered with mercy.

Chinese Aid

The Chinese sometimes have been called a backward race. Recently the Chinese of Boston held a parade which was in line with all the traditions of old China. There were firecrackers, bright costumes, Oriental music, and the not-to-be-omitted dragon. Along the route merchants and restaurant keepers hung out offerings of money attached to fresh lettuce leaves which the cavorting monster accepted amid the pleasant din of the crowd. It was all very picturesque. A stranger viewing the procession might easily have wondered what Chinese holiday was being celebrated. He might have been surprised to learn that the dragon was collecting offerings for the Boston Emergency Relief Campaign. And his surprise undoubtedly would be tinged with thoughtfulness if he should pursue his inquiry and find that not a single Chinese name figures on the city welfare lists. This great parade was staged by members of a so-called backward race to help the less fortunate persons in the Occidental sections of the city. A hungry, begging class among the Chinese in Boston does not exist as it does among other communities. They help themselves. And when the pinch of hard times is felt, Chinatown at least seems prosperous enough under its own particular system to be able to donate to Occidental charity.

WHITE MAN'S BURDEN

By E. L. ALLEN

The question "Who is the greatest man in the world to-day?" is one which it is really futile to ask. For the answer which any one of us gives to that question is determined beforehand by his conception of greatness. Thus one man will select a statesman, another a leader of industry, a third a literary genius. Each man chooses according to his own interests. But if one day some sort of international tribunal should sit to decide who is the greatest of all these, I should like to be there to put in a claim on behalf of a man who might easily be overlooked, just because his life is being spent in the heart of the African jungle. At thirty, the Alsatian Albert Schweitzer had behind him a record of brilliant achievement. He had written a book which had fluttered the theological dove-cotes throughout the world, and any University in Germany would have welcomed him to a chair. He was an organist with a European reputation, and was perhaps the foremost living exponent of the music of Bach. Even greater things were confidently expected of him, when one day his relatives and friends received letters from him bearing the postmark "Paris" and announcing a decision which took their breath quite away. He quietly returned to them that he proposed to return to the University as a medical student, and on the completion of his course to offer himself for service as a medical missionary in Equatorial Africa!

WORK STOPPED BY WAR.

A free-lance by nature, it was not easy to find an organisation with which he could work. However, an arrangement was made with a French Protestant Mission which gave him the scope he needed, and he set out for the Dark Continent. But he had not been long at work when war broke out and he found himself in an internment camp, where he whiled away the tedious hours by playing Bach on the table for an organ. He went into the camp a German citizen and came out of it a French one. Returning to Europe, he set himself, by writing, lecturing, and giving organ recitals, to raise the money needed to enable him to resume his medical work, this time independently of any organisation. So he is there to-day in the heart of the African jungle, with his hospital, his organ, and his books. He heals the ignorant patients who throng to his door, and then he retires into his study to grapple with the problems which beset that Western civilisation of which he is still a representative. Every now and again he turns back to Europe for a short rest, to see one of his books through the press, or to tour three or four countries in the interests of his work.

GREAT PHILOSOPHER.

As a thinker of the first order, he has a message for Europe as well as for Africa. The main outlines of his philosophy were complete already before the War, and what happened then served only to confirm him in his convictions. He preaches Reverence for Life, respect for the meanness thing which shares with us in the mystery and glory of living, respect above all for every human being, of whatever race or creed or colour. He tells us also that our great mistake is to put our trust in organisation and machinery, the world can only be saved by an increase within it of the number of individuals who not merely have high ideals, but who also have the courage to act as these ideals require of them here and now. And he himself is the best illustration of his message. But what was it that made this brilliant son of European culture dedicate his life to the people of Africa? He tells us that his work is for him a bearing of the white man's burden in a new and nobler sense. He seeks to make atonement for the wrongs inflicted on his own colour have inflicted on Africa in the past. He says: "If record could be compiled of all that has happened between the white and the coloured races it would make a book containing numbers of pages, referring to recent as well as to early times, which the reader would have to turn over unread because the contents would be so horrible. We and our civilisation are burdened with a great debt. We are not free to confer benefits on these men or not as we please; it is our duty. Anything we give them is not benevolence but atonement. For every one who scattered injury someone ought to go out to take help, and when we have done all that is in our power we shall not have atoned for the thousandth part of our guilt."

THE ARMS EMBARGO

By Leslie R. Aldous.

"Now if I'd been the British Government" announced Bowler Hat from the corner seat of the Third Class Smoker, "I should have stuck to my guns. We don't want our arms to make money by supplying armaments for the Far East. In present conditions, it's as bad as supporting the white slave traffic. That arms embargo should not have been removed." "Poor old Government!" soliloquised Tribby Hat. "It gets plenty of kicks whatever it does. By trying to please all the opponents of Japanese militarism, it merely got 'kicked in the pants' by the Chinese, who said that the embargo was hurting them more than the Japs." "Naturally," retorted Bowler Hat. "Since the League of Nations had declared Japan to be the aggressor, the embargo should have been levelled at that country alone." "And what then?" his opponent demanded. "Such discrimination would have been interpreted as an act tantamount to warfare. We should have had to bear the brunt of retaliation alone." "Well perhaps—" began Bowler Hat, and then paused for a moment. "But that's not the point. To my mind, moral considerations should come first. You can't get away from the fact that this horrible trade in slaughter is all wrong." "SO CONFOUNDEDLY SLOW."

"But, papa, sometimes you say I will be a greater artist than you and sometimes you tell me to forget all about music."

BULLS AND INNERS

From the Office Bulbs

Those who scorned the warning that the sun should be taken gently now realise that ignorance is blinder.

It has been noticed already that several local flappers, having apparently forgotten how to swim, are again taking lessons this year.

Backless beach pyjamas are to be the vogue this summer. The height of fashion, is however, has not yet been fully indicated.

"Enquire!"—No! Local nudists do not suffer anopheles bad time from mosquitoes. They merely sit among the rocks!

Judging by the obvious rollish with which some people enjoy soup, certain of the thicker concoctions might be advertised as nourishing and entertaining!

As far as dentists are concerned, gold is stopping still.

We notice that gold is still supposed to be the "greatest lover in the promotion of trade." This is doubtless on account of its purchasing power!

What about a movement to alleviate the distress amongst the many local families who are compelled to share one matched between them!

According to Edward Kelly an optimist is a man who looks at a half-empty bottle of whisky and says "Still half of it left." The pessimist says "Only half of it left."

Pocket radio are becoming the vogue, according to a home newspaper. We understand that these especially for ladies may be distinguished by the absence of loud speakers.

A fashion writer expresses the opinion that long cigarette holders for ladies "add a distinctly graceful air." We have noticed a few locally about six feet—in well polished lounge lizard!

A new invention enables a motor-car to move sideways. What lots of us want is one which will make it move forward.

HAPPY ADVERTISING. 4.

Romance in Business? undoubtedly there is, and the interest attached to our own business is worth recording.

Very many years ago, when the Late King Edward VII. was Prince of Wales and serving with the Royal Navy on the Mediterranean Station, our Mr. C. H. Bernard had the honour of serving closely with His Royal Highness.

Imminent retirement from the Service and a capacity for business suggested to Mr. C. H. Bernard the necessity for reviewing the prospects, which finally resulted in the blue skies and the happy comradeship of the Navy being left behind in the Mediterranean.

That Mr. Bernard was eminently successful in business is emphasised by the fact that within a few months he had secured important Naval contracts, and further, had built up such a specialised business, was commanded to appear at Buckingham Palace for the purpose of receiving orders for the Royal Household. Thus for many years the House of Bernard had the signal privilege of being the exclusive tailors to H.R.H. The Prince of Wales, H.R.H. The Duke of York, H.R.H. the Duke of Gloucester, and to Princess Mary Viscountess Lascelles.

In April 1902, Mr. C. H. Bernard was granted the Royal Warrant of Appointment, and the issue of the "Court Circular" for that month gave considerable space in outlining Mr. C. H. Bernard's success, and suggesting that he was persona grata at Court.

We then received the honour of providing the first uniforms for Their Royal Highnesses, and today we still have the privilege of serving Members of the Royal Household.

From the happy comradeship of the Mediterranean of the late 'eighties has sprung the business which carries large Naval contracts, and a service which supplies more than 30,000 personnel of His Majesty's Navy.

Last year over two hundred miles of cloth were used in our extensive workrooms, and three thousand work-people were kept employed.

Our activities cover the world and where so very many years ago, Mr. C. H. Bernard had the honour of serving with His late Majesty King Edward VII., we now have three well-fitted establishments, surely a token of well considered enterprise.

To-day in Hongkong we have brought a service which must inevitably lead to better shopping facilities and reasonable prices in the Colony.

BETTER PAY FOR CONSTABLES

SURPRISE IN REPORT OF COMMITTEE

The report of the Committee appointed to consider the pay of police sergeants and constables who have joined the police forces in England, Wales, and Scotland since September 30, 1931, has been issued.

If the recommendations are approved, constables will receive more on joining than is the case at present, but will have to serve longer to obtain the maximum pay, which remains unaltered.

Under the present rates a constable joining on or after October 1, 1931, receives 55s. a week, rising at the end of one year to 57s. 6d., and at the end of two years to 60s., subject to a deduction of ten per cent.

The maximum pay a constable can receive is 90s. a week after ten years, or 95s. if he gets good conduct bonus.

The scale recommended by the Committee provides that a constable shall start with 62s. a week, rising to 66s. at the end of one year and to 67s. 6d. at the end of two years.

The rate then rises in increments of 2s. 6d. up to seven years, and then in increments of 2s. up to the maximum pay of 90s. after twelve years.

Sergeants' pay remains unaltered.

INCREASED WORK.

The Committee endorse the report of the Desborough Committee in 1919 that police work as a profession should be raised permanently.

"This was a wise intention," it states, "and the attraction of recruits of a higher standard of education, intelligence, and social standing is not less desirable than it was in 1919."

"The work and responsibilities of the police have further increased since 1919 as a result of the greater complexity of present-day life; and that in particular cases, notably that of the Road Traffic Act, the passing of new legislation has brought about a material increase."

"Another change which has taken place," states the report, "is in the class of persons with whom the police have to deal. Before 1919, or at least before the war, their day-to-day work was with the criminal class, and the offence which bulked largest was that of drunkenness."

"But while drunkenness has ceased to occupy a major part in the work of the police," it adds, "the vast increase in motor traffic has brought them into contact with all sections of the community; and whereas before 1919 the constable had seldom to exercise authority over persons of a different social order from his own, that is now a common incident of his daily duty."

MOTOR-CAR THIEVES' LONG WALK

WATER MISTAKEN FOR PETROL

Thieves, who stole a motor-car at Oxford, drove it to a lonely spot on the Southampton Portsmouth Road, when the petrol supply became exhausted.

The car was found abandoned with the lights still burning, by an Automobile Association patrol man.

At each A.A. patrol box two cans are kept, one containing petrol and the other water. The petrol can is removed at night.

The thieves, running short of petrol, broke into two boxes at King's Corner and at Wickham, but the cans they took contained water, with which they filled the tank.

Presumably they then had a long walk.

THE PRINCE—OF CARPENTERS*ROYAL MEMORIES OF CUT FINGERS

The Prince of Wales revealed at the 600th anniversary dinner of the Carpenters' Company at Carpenters' Hall, E.C., that in his young days he was an amateur carpenter himself.

"Very few of us here have not—in my case many years ago—practised the art of carpentry," he said, "generally with very poor results to our fingers." (Laughter.)

Here are other extracts from the Prince's speech:

It cannot have been very long at the dawn of time before some inventive ancestor of ours conceived the bright idea of hollowing out the trunk of a tree to enable him to navigate a pre-historic swamp or river.

The more a design can be produced which appears to be free from effort, the more beautiful it generally is. Simplicity in line, form and decoration is, I think, what modern taste demands.

It is exactly 600 years since the "Book of Ordinances" of the Brotherhood of Carpentry" appeared in the reign of Edward the Third. These Ordinances said that none but those "of good fame and good name" should be admitted into the fraternity, and therefore the guests to-night can have the privilege of being regarded as good citizens of blameless repute.

It was also "ordained" that any "common maintainer of quarrels" should forthwith be put out so he would not introduce any controversial topic. (Laughter.)

I often say "Never be too proud to copy anything you may see abroad that you think is better than what you have produced here at home."

If your training schools can contribute something to all the research and work that is being done to find the simplest and cheapest way of housing people well and efficiently you are indeed doing a great service.

At the end of his speech the Prince presented a new badge to

PREMONITION OF DEATH*COUPLE FOUND SHOT

A premonition of her death was felt by Mrs. Ivy Amelia Gould, the victim of a double shooting tragedy at her mother's house in Longmead-street, Bath.

She was found dead in bed beside her two young children, who were unhurt, while her husband, Edward Abel Gould of Worcester, from whom she was living apart, lay dead on the bedroom floor with a double-barrelled gun nearby.

HER BABIES.

Mrs. Fullbrook, the dead woman's mother, said that her daughter had spoken of her premonition.

"She asked me," said Mrs. Fullbrook, "whether I would take care on her babies, Rosaline, aged 2, and Richard, aged 14 months, if anything were to happen to her."

"I told her that I would of course."

Mrs. Gould was married three years ago, and until January of this year, when she obtained a separation order on the ground of cruelty, she had lived with her husband in Worcester.

A vivid description of the tragedy was given by Miss Lily Fullbrook.

"I was reading in bed until about halfpast eleven," she said, "and just before I was going to put my candle out I heard a noise outside the window."

"I looked out, but as I could see nothing I thought it must have been caused by a cat. I went to sleep, and about one o'clock I was awakened by two gunshots close together. I was almost suffocated by the fumes of the gun."

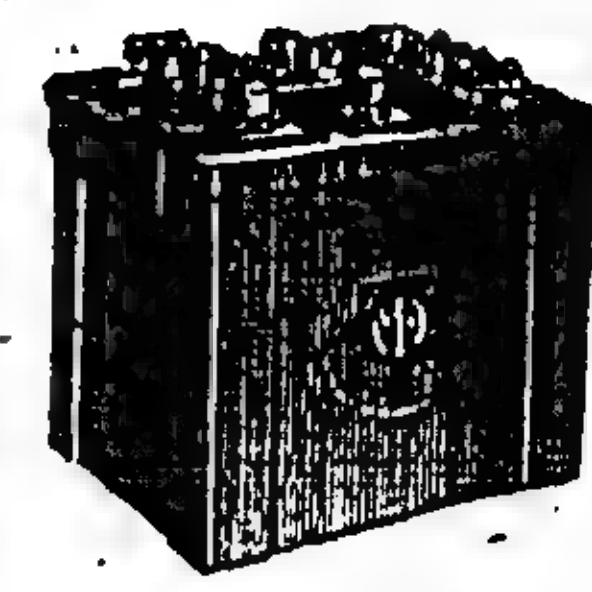

"I sprang out of bed and by the glow of a night-light, which was still burning, I saw someone lying on the floor. It was my brother-in-law, dead. I rushed over to Ivy's bed and found that she, too, was dead."

the Master of the Company, remarking that the badge was designed by the same artist—he did not know whether to call him a sculptor or not—who had designed the badge which he was privileged to wear as Master of the Master Mariners.

TENNIS BOOM AT KOWLOON C. C.

PREPARING FOR THE LEAGUE

A QUALIFYING COMPETITION

NEW BLOOD IN THE CLUB

(By "VERITAS")

Tennis is booming at the Kowloon Cricket Club.

This is not only evidenced by the big entries which have been made in the annual tournaments, which start to-morrow, but by the active interest which is being displayed in the forthcoming league season.

An unusual immigration of new players has been noticed, and it is felt that the Club has quite a reasonable chance this summer of regaining the prominent position it used to hold in the tennis league.

So keen, in fact, is the competition for a place in one of the three teams entered the league, that the committee has hit upon the excellent idea of arranging an American tournament to offer a guide as to the likely constitution of the teams.

This will be held during a week-end immediately following the conclusion of the championships.

THE OLD SCHOOL

Already the club has the nucleus of some useful sides. The Fincher brothers and Bertie Guest are turning out again for the senior team, whilst W. Hyde will be available, and will probably team up with Guest.

Among the younger players seeking recognition in the team are C. A. Wright, G. C. Burnett, who played for the "A" six last summer, C. I. Stapleton, I. M. Mearns and S. A. Gray.

It was hoped that W. C. Hung would join the league ranks of the Club, but he has apparently thrown in his lot once again with the Chinese Recreation, being amongst the nominated players for the B Division team.

Another acquisition to the Peninsula club, however, is J. J. Ferguson, who for the past two years performed with such success for the Y.M.C.A.

STRONGER LADIES

Wirth, another former Y.M.C.A. player will turn out for the B team, together with R. B. Hamby and D. S. Green, whilst the third team promises to be stronger than last year, with G. A. White, N. A. E. Mackay, R. S. Capell and L. Jack as its nucleus.

With the continued improvement of such players as Miss Olive Dalziel, Miss Griffiths and others, the K.C.C. mixed doubles side should be a more formidable force than heretofore and promise to offer a strong challenge to the U.S.R.C. and I.R.C.

Anyway, you won't find much pessimism about tennis at the Kowloon Cricket Club just now!

WIN FOR AMERICA AT ICE HOCKEY

ALL-EUROPE GO DOWN CHAMPIONS BY 3-1
London, Apr. 13.
In an exhibition ice-hockey match at Oxford to-day, the visiting American team defeated an All-Europe side by three goals to one.

The European eleven were captained by the famous skater, Baron Henri von Trautenberg.

HAGEN RETIRING THIS YEAR

LAST ATTEMPT TO WIN DOUBLE CROWN

Chicago, Apr. 13.
The famous showman of the fairways, Walter Hagen, proposes to retire from all active competition after his 1933 golf engagements in America and abroad. He is to wage a serious campaign to recover his major titles on both sides of the Atlantic, captain America's Ryder Cup team to victory in England, and then to retire to the business of designing golf clubs and equipment.

Hagen has been one of the big money winners of the current winter campaign, with his total earnings placed at around $2,000, but he is 40 now, and his connection with a golf club manufacturing house is demanding more and more of his time. Hagen has won the American national open twice, in 1914 and 1919, captured the British open four times, in 1922-24-28-29; won the professional golf championship of the United States five times, in 1921-24-25-26-27; and the metropolitan title in 1916-19-20. The western open championship has belonged to him five times, in 1916-21-26-27-32. Canada's open escaped him until 1931. He has captained all America's Ryder Cup teams in official play.

POLICE LOSE LAWN BOWLER

SERGT. DALL DEPARTS ON HOME LEAVE

By the departure on Home leave to-day of Sergt. W. S. Dall, the Police Recreation Club will lose the services this summer of one of their regular lawn bowlers. Sergt. Dall leaves by the E. and O. liner, Chitral.

BOWLS CHAMPIONSHIP

CLOSING DATE OF ENTRIES IN OPEN SINGLES

Competitors intending to take part in the annual open singles championship of the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association should note that entries will close on May 14 next.

Hon. secretaries of clubs having members competing should send a complete list of entries to Mr. H. Hampton, Hon. Secretary of the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association. An entrance fee of $2 per player is payable.

Talkoo Opening Day.

The Talkoo Recreation Club are holding their opening day this afternoon when two picked teams will be in opposition. The game will commence at 3.30 p.m.

A NOVEL SOCCER INCIDENT

INJURED MAN OFF FIELD HELPS TO SCORE

London, Apr. 14.
An interesting point of law has arisen in consequence of a goal scored in a recent cup-tie in Ireland, when Portadown were playing Glentoran. Roberts, of the last-named club, went off injured and, while he was being attended to on the touch-line, the ball came across the field in his direction. In a flash he had dashed on to the field and kicked the ball into the Portadown goal-mouth and another Glentoran player scored a goal.

The goal was hotly disputed by the Portadown team, who contended that Roberts first should have informed the referee of his intention to return before taking part in the game. The referee decided to let the point stand. There is no law governing this point, but it is deemed likely the Irish F. A. will propose a new law when the International Board meet in Ireland next June.—Reuter.

ROWING REGATTA.

CANTON OARSMEN AT NORTH POINT TO-DAY

A most interesting programme has been arranged by the Royal Hongkong Yacht Club for the closing regatta of the season. Canton and the Yacht Club will be striving to retain their flags, and will find in the re-born Victoria Recreation Club rowing section formidable rivals. The re-appearance of the V.R.C. in the local regattas is welcomed by all local oarsmen for nothing could stimulate interest in rowing more than to have keen competition for premier rowing honours.

Reports from Canton are to hand and with the C.R.C. and the Yacht Club crews well together the public is promised some of the best racing seen in local waters for some time. Great interest will be shown in the race for Senior Fours, for the Yacht Club crew which lost so narrowly to Manila in January this year will be seen in action against splendid crews from the V.R.C. and Canton. Allison, their cox, was unfortunate in breaking his collar-bone while riding last Sunday, but an excellent substitute has been found in that veteran Murdoch, and local experts have it that the race will be one of the most thrilling for some time, with the Yacht Club crew narrow winners.

The programme is as follows:
2.30 Junior Fours—Canton v. V.R.C. v. Yacht Club.
2.45 Novice Pairs—V.R.C. v. Yacht Club.
3.15 Senior Fours—Canton v. V.R.C. v. Yacht Club.
3.30 Junior Pairs—Canton v. V.R.C. v. Yacht Club.
4 Novice Fours—V.R.C. v. Yacht Club.
4.30 Senior Pairs—Canton v. V.R.C. v. Yacht Club.

YACHT RACES.

Three yachting races figure on the card, being the second, third and fourth events of the programme.

The first, a ladies' race for handicap class, begins at 3 p.m. and is followed by another ladies' race for one design boats of the Heyward and Gael classes.

The third is race for the Anker class yachts, starting at 3.20, and is over a distance of 5 miles. Launches will be provided through the kindness of the Hongkong Bank, Messrs. Butterfield and Swire and Messrs. Jardine, Matheson for those wishing to follow the races, while the Yacht Club extend a hearty welcome to all visitors.

JAPANESE SWIMMERS TO AMERICA

Tokyo, April 13.
Acting on the decision reached at the meeting of delegates' committee, the Japan Aquatic Sport Union has cabled to the A.A.U. of the United States, accepting the latter's invitation to take part in the swimming meet scheduled for this summer.
A group of first class swimming champions, numbering some 10, is leaving Yokohama for America in the middle part of June.

INTERPORT WON BY TEAM-WORK

HONOURS TO DUFFY AND CHOW

SHANGHAI MAN IN FORM

Tientsin, Apr. 15.
The Interport Soccer match between Tientsin and Shanghai was played off here this afternoon and resulted in a win for the home team by the big margin of seven goals to one, after a very clean and sporting game enjoyed by both sides.

Within five minutes from the kick-off, the beautiful combination of Tientsin's left wing resulted in the first goal, followed a few minutes later by a dash culminating in a second goal scored from the centre. After that it was a ding-dong struggle, both sides playing a very careful game.

The third goal for Tientsin was scored from a penalty and shortly afterwards the home team's inside-left, J. Johansson, formerly of Shanghai, made magnificent solo dash and scored a beautiful goal with a very difficult long-range shot. A few minutes before the end of the first half, Shanghai very nearly scored their only goal from a corner.

Half-time score—Tientsin 4; Shanghai 1.

On the resumption, Shanghai opened strongly, but Tientsin took over the initiative and in a crash in front of the posts, scored their fifth goal. After that, the game deteriorated into an individual display, followed by general indifference. Towards the end, Tientsin unexpectedly snapped out of their lethargy and, after a lovely exhibition of passing, found the net for the sixth time.

Shanghai also woke up, but could not break through Tientsin's defences. Two minutes from the end, J. Johansson, with another long ball neatly under the bar for the range shot, placed an unsavoury seventh and final goal.

Despite the sorry result, Shanghai played well. Special mention must be made of Duffy, who played an indefatigable game, and of C. Y. Chow, who saved several very critical situations. Tientsin showed superior team-work and benefited from the advantage of playing at home.

Tom Parker, the Arsenal captain has been appointed manager of Norwich City. Parker, who has been coaching Nunhead, helped Southampton to gain promotion from the Third Division, and to reach the Cup semi-final before joining the Arsenal in 1926. Up to last season he had played 253 League games for the Arsenal and in their Cup finals.

Madison Square Garden. Thousands of fans excitedly waiting for the going to sound the start of a world's championship wrestling match. In one corner the champion, confident, smiling. Across the ring, the challenger, who has agreed to "throw" the match.

The friends of the challenger have wagered their all on him. If he throws the match they lose everything.
If he wins he must face arrest for killing his wife's treacherous lover.
What shall he do? That is the dramatic problem which Wallace Beery answers in "Flesh," a story of the wrestling racket which is showing to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre.

Just as in his previous sport picture of prize fighting, "The Champ," Beery gives a performance that grips his audience as though they were caught in his vice-like fists. He moves them to laughter and to tears, he amazes with the artistry by which he transforms himself into the character he portrays. As Herr Polak, German champion who tries to battle the American wrestling trust, he reaches new heights in an entirely different type of role.

Karen Morley, Jean Hersholt, John Miljan, Vince Barnett, Herman Bing, Edward Brophy, Greta Meyer and Wladislaw Zyzanski, former world's wrestling champion, round out a spectacular cast.

A full share of the honours also go to Director John Ford for the way in which he has relieved the dramatic tension with comedy and character highlights. It is a well-acted, well-directed, well-told picture, one of the best in Wallace Beery's career.

"Carnival Boat"

Combining the sweep and spectacle of the silent days with exciting dialogue and thrilling action "Carnival Boat," Bill Boyd's latest starring picture, opened a run at the Central Theatre yesterday. This picture puts the motion back into motion pictures.
The dialogue is sufficient and good but this romance of the big trees shines most brilliantly in its action and the thrilling sequences which take place in a mountain logging camp.

Boyd is seen as a young lumberman son of the camp boss, Hobart Bosworth. The woods are his work-ground instead of his workshop and his father is disappointed that the young man does not have the ambition to succeed him when his not-distant retirement is necessary. Bill's chief interest is Ginger Rogers, who has the role of a fiery-haired little dancer and singer aboard a show-boat.

This picture represents the first attempt any producer has made to take a microphone into the big trees and RKO Pathe has done an excellent job of it.

The Kailan Mines

[To the Editor, Hongkong
Telegraph.]

Sir,—Reports have been in circulation during the last few days regarding the activities of the Kailan Mining Administration, amongst others being a report that the export of coal from the Administration's Mines has virtually ceased on account of the troubles in the Mines Area.

This is not strictly correct, and the General Manager has authorised us to make a statement to the effect that the mines are working normally. Whilst it is true that traffic between the mines and Chinwangtao is temporarily suspended, the General Manager assures the maintenance of regular shipments via the port

"Handle with Care"

Hollywood, ever anxious to discover a new Jackie Coogan or a new Jackie Cooper, has been carrying on a hunt for years.

Once the little Mallory or Baxter is found in someone's home, the greatest worries of parents and studios alike begin. A perplexing maze of ironbound rules and regulations must be fulfilled before the youngster is allowed to begin his film career.

For instance, here are but a few of the "musts" that Buster Phelps and George Ernest, appearing with James Dunn and Boots Mallory in "Handle With Care," had to abide by in their appearances before the camera on the Fox lot.

To use children in pictures, the studios must first get a permit from the welfare department of the Board of Education of Los Angeles. The studio must at all times furnish a cloned car to transport the youngster and his mother or nurse to and from the studio.

The studios must also provide a complete nursery on each set using very young children.

A young lady must at no time be exposed to the lights of the scene for more than thirty seconds, and not for more than two minutes out of any two hours.

"Indiscreet"

With Pilot Ben Lyon at the controls, flying formed the most popular recreation of the cast of "Indiscreet."

NEW HORIZONS

SHANGHAI JUNK LEAVES
FOR AUSTRALIA

The round-the-world junk, Shih Di
Ping Shi (New Horizons) will leave Hongkong to-morrow morning, bound for Manila, P.I., and Australia.

The junk arrived in Hongkong about two months ago and has been practically re-built at the Talkoo Dockyard. Water-tight compartments have been fitted and she is now thoroughly seaworthy.

Original plans did not include Australia in the junk's itinerary. After Manila, the course had been planned for Honolulu and the United States.

Several changes have been made in the ship's complement. Two Georgians and a Frenchman who came from Shanghai have left the ship here and their places have been taken by two Americans, Cransworth and Manning, and an Australian named J.
Peterson. The crew now comprises Capt. Blomfield, Chief Officer Loring Farnsworth, Manning, Cranshaw, J. Peterson, a Filipino named Ma-gulla Andico and a Chinese, Li Ningwoo.

The Georgians who left the junk in Hongkong were members of the crew of Capt. Eric Bishop's junk from Shanghai which was wrecked on the coast of Formosa. Capt. Bishop's new boat, the Fu Po, from Amoy, arrived in Manila a few days ago.
Peterson, who replaces one of them,
is an old hand at sail, having served before the mast in windjammers in many parts of the world.

On Wednesday night a private farewell dinner party, was tendered to Capt. Blomfield, Messrs. Farnsworth and Peterson by Mr. A. E. Bates and Mr. A. C. Spence, two well-known local Australians.

which comes to the King's Theatre to-morrow.

Lyon, who has the leading male role opposite Miss Swanson, who learned to pilot a plane, and received a licence
during the filming of "Let's Go Native", was in the habit of going to a nearby flying field in the evening when the day's work was done, and do an hour or so of pleasurable flying about.
Soon Arthur Lake, who got his air experience in "Air Circus", asked to go along, and the two of them did considerable flying. Other members of the cast, including Monroe Owsley, Barbara Kent and Madue Elburne received rides from young Lyon after work on the picture had ceased for the day, even making a devout air enthusiast of Owsley, who at first had some misgivings.

While there is no flying in her latest comedy-drama, Miss Swanson is starred in an ultra modern story, lending itself appealing to her characterization. It was written by Desylva, Brown and Henderson, song writers turned dramatic authors, and she turns in one of the finest performances of her career. Leo Mc-Carry, who directed "Let's Go Native", and "Fare Time With", directed the picture in his happy, buoyant manner.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

The following hand was also selected from the Southern Sectional Championship tournament recently held at Augusta, Ga., and gives a good example of a clever psychic bid at contract.

The Bidding

The opening bid by South varied at practically every table. Some forced with two diamonds. Those using the artificial club bid one club, while the writer, who advocates the one over one, prefers a bid of one diamond on this hand. It is not strong enough to make a forcing two bid. If partner has a complete bust he will pass and if partner's hand has two queens or better in it, he will at least give you a one no trump response and you would not have to be afraid of the bidding dying. Even though the hand holds 150 aces, an opening bid of two no trump should not be considered.

Going back to the one diamond bid, West passed, North responded with two hearts. Remember this is one over one—one heart over one diamond—a forcing bid from North informing partner that he has a playable heart suit and at least one and one-half tricks and requests that the bidding be kept open once more although no promise is made for game. East passed.

Now what would you do with South's hand? Knowing that partner holds one and one-half tricks, we know that one trick must be the king and queen of hearts and the half trick can be the king of spades, king of diamonds or the club king. Supposing it is the king of clubs, we can find a home for our losing cards—the deuce of spades will go on the queen of hearts and the five of spades on the king of clubs, and we will assume that we must lose the king of diamonds.

This would be O. K. unless West happens to open a spade—then our chances of going game are badly ruined especially if West should hold the king of diamonds. Therefore the psychic bidder realizing that the only opening that can stop him from making a small slam is a spade opening, deliberately bids two spades, which is a forcing bid. He need not fear that the bidding will close as he has demanded his partner to keep it open. Now if West may stop him from opening it, North responds to the two spades with three hearts showing that he has nothing but his five-card minimum heart bid. South then goes to six diamonds which all pass. South players might want to double with West's holding but it is too dangerous.

The Play

If South had not bid spades, West in the majority of cases

AN ARMED ROBBERY.

EVIDENCE OF ARREST GIVEN BY THE POLICE

Before Mr. Butlers, at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court yesterday afternoon, three men, Fung King, Fok Chuen and Wong Yuk-ling, were charged with having taken part in an armed robbery at No. 110 Apili Street, first floor, on the afternoon of March 30.

The first and second defendants were charged with robbery and receiving stolen property, while the third was charged with being an accessory before the fact and also with receiving stolen property.

At the last hearing, Detective Sergeant Goodwin said that Cheung Kai, complainant, while in bed in the rear cubicle of No. 110 Apili Street, was seized by two men who bound and gagged him. After searching the floor, the men left, taking with them various articles of clothing and jewellery. The alarm was raised and detectives hurried to the scene and released the complainant.

Later, the first defendant was arrested for having in his possession articles which were identified as having been among those taken away at the time of the robbery.

Mr. K. A. Bidmont, A.S.P., gave evidence of an identification parade held at Shamshui Police Station on April 1. The first defendant was identified by Sam Kum, an accountant in a pawnbroker's shop, who had received certain articles of clothing from defendant.

Two Chinese, also living at No. 110 Apili Street, gave evidence that during their absence on March 30, some clothing had been taken.

Sam Kum, accountant in a pawnbroker's office in Tsun-wan village, said that on March 31, the first defendant entered his shop and pawned a suit of clothes, a pair of trousers and a pair of gold ear-rings for $17.00.

Two other accountants in different pawnbrokers' shops also described how they had given money to the first defendant for articles of clothing.

Wong Cheuk, a Police Lance-sergeant, had arrested first defendant and, on searching him, found a pair of Chinese slippers and cotton trousers. First defendant admitted having taken part in the armed robbery at No. 110 Apili Street and said that the slippers and trousers had been taken at that time. He told the police where to find second and third defendants.

The case was adjourned until next Wednesday at 2.15 p.m.

would open with the jack of spades—the top of the two touching honors. But now that South has forced with spades, he is afraid that he may be leading into the ace, queen, therefore it looks as though the proper lead would be the queen of clubs which was opened in this case and it is now rather simple for the declarer to make six odd. He wins the first club trick in his own hand with the ace and then lays down the ace and queen of diamonds granting West the king of diamonds. Now regardless of what West leads the declarer is bound to win, pick up the trump, discard his two losing spades—one on the queen of hearts and the other on the king of clubs.

While this psychic bid has assisted declarer in making a small

VEHICULAR FERRY.

YOUNG ENGINEER ADDRESS
"VARSITY STUDENTS."

A very illuminating talk on the construction of the vehicular ferry and on the general scheme was given by Mr. E. Wong Tape, a graduate of Hongkong University and an engineer at the Public Works Department to the circle of the University Engineering Society last night.

Mr. Wong Tape described the considerations which led to the choice of the vehicular ferry in preference to the alternate tunnel and subterranean tunnel; the advantages of the ferry piers in their present locations; the engineering and constructional difficulties encountered in the work on the piers; as well as other features which were not general public information.

The lecturer placed the Vehicular Ferry in line with other current engineering works as the Aerodrome and the Shing Mun Waterworks. He looked forward to another big undertaking—the motor highway connecting Hongkong and Canton.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the young engineer at the conclusion of his interesting address.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT.

MILIE. HULTZ DUE HERE
ON WEDNESDAY

Mademoiselle Maryse Hultz will arrive in Hongkong on Wednesday, April 26, and leave at dawn the following day for Hanai in her attempt to lower the Orient-Paris air record.

This cabled information was received by the local branch of the Asiatic Petroleum Company from its Yokohama Office yesterday.

The young Frenchwoman recently passed through Hongkong on her way to Japan. Her attempt on the

CHICAGO TEAMS BLANKED OUT

New York, Apr. 21. New York Giants suffered a somewhat unexpected defeat when they went down to Boston to-day, while Chicago had a disastrous time in both the National and American leagues, being blanked out in each instance.

Hullahan pitched brilliantly for St. Louis in the National clash, and Hadley did the trick in the American league game.

Bottomley scored a home run for Cincinnati in their National game against Pittsburgh, while homers were obtained by Gissell for Cleveland, Babe Ruth for New York Yankees and Myer for Washington in the American League programme.

MAN WITH COMMISSIONS ON LAND SEA AND AIR

The appointment of Mr. Albert E. Bates as second-Lieutenant in the Anzac Company of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps was gazetted yesterday.

Mr. Bates has now held a commission in every branch of the service. He has been Lieutenant-Commander Bates R. N., and is on the emergency list of the Royal Australian Navy.

For a time he was attached to the Royal Air Force, holding a commission as Flight-Lieutenant. Now, in the parlance of his company, he has joined the ranks of the beetle-crushers.

Having spent part of his time with the navy in submarines, Mr. Bates has served under the sea, on the sea, on land and in the air—a unique record.

GOODBYE RUSSIA!

ENGINEERS ARRIVE AT WARSAW

Warsaw, Apr. 21. Monkhouse, Nordwall, Cushty and Gregory received a tumultuous welcome on their arrival at the frontier station of St. Olpe at 1.15 p.m. In addition to British journalists, crowds of Polish civilians and military officers welcomed the engineers who, after a meal at the buffet, proceeded at 2.5 from Warsaw to Berlin.

Contrary to the custom of dealing with deportees, the Okpa guards did not accompany the engineers to the frontier. The engineers were treated as ordinary travellers.

They declined to make statements.—Reuter.
